How well do you know your faith?

1. Last weekend Father read a sermon of a great saint. Who was this saint?
2. The analogy was made that the priests of the church are the _____ and we the people are the _____. With his apostles, Jesus asks who to feed his sheep? How many times did Christ ask this question? What is this in comparison to?
3. What is the vessel called that holds the relics of a saint?
4. There are two Marian feast days in August. One is the Assumption of the Blessed Mother into Heaven, on August 15th. What is the other and what is day is it?
5. After the death of King _____ the twelve tribes of Israel split, some going to the north and some staying in the south. How many tribes made up the northern kingdom, and how many the southern kingdom? What were the names of each after the split?
6. The capital of the northern kingdom was _____, while the capital of the southern kingdom was _____.
7. The northern kingdom was taken captive by _____ in what year?
8. The southern kingdom was taken captive by _____ in what year? Did either kingdom ever return to Jerusalem? A quote from the Bible: "Every kingdom _____ against _____ is laid waste and no city or house _____ against _____ will stand." Who said this? Matthew 12: 25 Mark 3: 24 Luke 11: 17
9. This saint was born in the castle of Loyola in the Basque region of Spain in 1491. He was brought up to be a soldier but was wounded in battle. During his convalescence he read the life of Christ and books about the saints, which led to his conversion. He changed his name and spent a long time living as a hermit, and studied philosophy. Together with several followers he took vows of poverty, chastity and promised to serve the Church, eventually founding a new order, the Society of Jesus (Jesuits) which was approved in 1540. He died at Rome in 1556. Who is he?
10. Bishop and Doctor of the Church Patron of confessors and theologians. Born in the village of Marianella, Italy, he was inspired by his pious mother at an early age with the deepest sentiments of piety. Because of his excellent education and his own exceptional intellect, he graduated in law by age 16, after which he was admitted to the Neapolitan bar. God made use of a disappointment in his life to wean his heart from the world. Few saints have labored as much, either by word or by writing. Who is he?

Surprising Facts About Church History

Justin was the first Christian apologist

Martyred in Rome for his robust defense of the Christian faith. Justin left three treatises (and various fragments) that still survive to this day.

His "First Apology" argues that Jesus is the Word made flesh, the one who has inspired goodness, beauty and reason in all human persons.

His "Second Apology" asserts that Christians are not guilty of the atrocities attributed to them by fearful men who only want to destroy the good.

In his "Dialogue with Trypho", Justin journeys through all of salvation history, showing how Christianity is the consummation of the Jewish Scriptures.

"To yield and give way to our passions is the lowest slavery, even as to rule over them is the only liberty."

~ St Justin Martyr, Fragment 18

Origen of Alexandria is considered both an important Christian teacher and a heretic

The first real systematic thinker of Christian theology was Origen of Alexandria (d254).

His writings were controversial, including his belief that The Holy Trinity was hierarchical rather than consisting of equality between the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit.

Origen also believed that all souls, even Satan, could eventually be saved, a theory called apocatastasis.

Three centuries after his death, the Second Council of Constantinople pronounced him a heretic: "Whoever says or thinks that the punishment of demons and the wicked will not be eternal. . let him be anathema."

Despite this condemnation, Origen created hundreds of important works for the Church, and some twentieth-century theologians feel that he was misunderstood, and thus maligned.
